

The background of the slide features a light blue grid pattern. On the left side, there is a stylized representation of the Earth, showing the continents of Africa and Europe. This globe is surrounded by several concentric circles, some of which have arrows indicating a circular path or orbit. The overall color scheme is dominated by various shades of blue.

Do you speak Maori?

2) The term 'Māori' did not exist until the Europeans arrived. It means 'ordinary' and Māori used it to distinguish themselves from the new, fair skinned settlers.

3) Land of the Long White Cloud

New Zealand's name in Maori is Aotearoa, which means 'land of the long white cloud.'

- Longest Name in Any English Speaking Country
- The 85 characters long Maori name for a hill in Hawke's Bay is the longest place name found in any English-speaking country.
- It is, Taumatawhakatangihangaoauauotameteaturipukaka pikimaungah-oronukupokaiwhenuakitanatahu, which roughly translate, "the place where Tamatea, the man with the big knees, who slid, climbed and swallowed mountains, known as the land-eater, played his nose flute to his loved ones".
